

2023 Annual Research Forum Poster Competition

GRADUATE/PROFESSIONAL GUIDELINES

The Ohio State University is one of the world's best public research universities, offering about 280 graduate study programs in all. Research is a key component of graduate education, and the College of Food, Agricultural and Environmental Sciences (CFAES) translates this cutting-edge research to stakeholders across the state. By engaging with our stakeholders, we provide research, technology, and knowledge to support safe, sustainable, and viable agricultural practices across Ohio and the world. Each year, the research done by our students and research scientists is put on display at the CFAES Annual Research Conference and Poster Competition.

POSTER COMPETITION ELIGIBILITY

The Graduate and Professional Poster Competition is open to any currently enrolled or recently graduated (Summer 2022 or later) students, including M.S., Ph.D., and professional students, working on a CFAES supported project. Post-docs and Research Assistants/ Associates/ Scientists, including Visiting Scholars that are not currently enrolled in an advanced degree program, are also invited to participate. There will be separate competitions held for Master's students, Doctoral students, Post-doctoral Scholars, and Research Assistants/ Associates/ Scientists.

Entrants may present only posters on original research they have conducted while at The Ohio State University. Students don't need to have completed their research to participate in the poster competition. For research in progress, rather than including your final results, we will ask you to discuss initial observations about the progress you have made.

REVIEW PROCESS & AWARDS

Separate competitions will be held for Master's students, Doctoral students, Post-docs, and Research Assistants/ Associates/ Scientists. The guidelines for the undergraduate competition can be found here:

All posters will undergo a review process during which they will be scored. Poster judges are recruited from a variety of fields within CFAES, so it is recommended that content is clearly explained for the non-technical audience. Evaluations will be based on the abstract, poster content, design, and the poster presentation according to a rubric developed by the Conference Committee, which can be found at go.osu.edu/CFAESposterrubric.

First, second, and third place winners in each graduate and professional competition level will receive awards of $500, $300, and $150, respectively. Winners will be announced at the CFAES Research Forum Awards Ceremony on Thursday, March 30, 2023. Winners must participate in all aspects of the competition to be eligible for award (including attending a poster session).

Excused absences for non-moveable obligations or challenges (e.g., a final exam or unexpected illness) will be allowed with written explanation from the entrant's advisor or supervisor. If a participant is unable to complete the requirements of the competition, their advisor needs to provide a justification by emailing the Graduate Education Coordinator, Kayla Arnold (arnold.1065@osu.edu) or they will be disqualified from the competition.

Participants in the poster competition must submit their abstract and a PDF of their poster by 5:00pm on Friday, March 10, 2023 at annualconference.cfaes.osu.edu.
